Allen's solo exhibition at Foley

Thomas Allen

Through March 3

Foley Gallery
547 W. 27th St.
5th Floor

Photographer Thomas Allen's second solo exhibition has one foot in the past. The artist uses the salacious pulp art drawings of the '40s and '50s that covered books such as "I Married A Dead Man" and "Marihuana Girl" and gives them a new dimension — the third. Allen arranges one set of pictures up close while obscuring another, and in the process creates a different context. He gives each piece a brand new storyline, though never quite strays from their cheeky origins.
